Whether or not he could be induced to accept the place, no one can definitely say, but if it is his party's desire that he shall, he cannot afford to ignore it. If he should take the nomination, and be elected, it would not only possibly, but probably, be a stepping stone to the presidential nomination four years hence. #### SOME EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

By placing a mask on his teeth Mr. Roosevelt manages to slip around the sew York saloons on Sunday and do a little detective work.—Washington Post.

There has been much said in congress and in the press in disapproval and depreciation of the course of the treasury department in regard to the bond sales, but it is questionable whether anybody believes that Secretary Carlisle has not acted with absolute integrity in every case.—Omaha Bee.

The Indiana instructions for McKinley leave no room for reasonable doubt as to his nomination on the first ballot. There is no longer any possibility of a combination of the anti-McKinley forces on Harrison or anybody else; and even if such a combination could be effected, it would not be strong enough to control the convention.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

California is for free silver and Mc-Kinley. Perhaps the Reeds and Flatts and Quays can now see that our ex-governor was wise in not allowing himself to be forced into the castern gold trap. McKinley on a gold platform in the east, and on a silver declaration in the west, doesn't look precisely consistent; but there is the tariff to bind him to both places. No other Republican has a double-jointed machine like McKinley's—Cincinnati Enquirer.

pany has been prosperous to have made such earnings as these. If the Republicans elect the president and congress this November, will they undertake to give such "infant industries" as these more protection?

If they contribute largely of their fat to the campaign fund they will undoubtedly demand their pound of flesh, and get it without any of the terrible conditions that were improved upon

It is to be lamented that the investigation is to be conducted in a spirit of partisanship rather than that of patriotism. The purpose of Senator Peffer in inaugurating the movement was to multiply distress in order to promote the interests of the Populist party. The idea that influenced the Republican senators, or the majority of them, to support the resolution was that it would help the Republican party in the approaching campaign.
The trend of the inquiry will, therefore, be toward accomplishing that result if possible.—Kansas City Star.
